UP IN OLD SLIP. Looks Like a Stock of Hardware Half

Fused Together-Suggests Interesting Beminiscences of the Fire-Chronicles from The Sun of Sixty-one Years Age, Workmen excavating at the corner of Old slip and Water street in preparation for a new building there have been much delayed in their work for the past few days by a great bulk of sing which they came upon in a corner of the cellar. It was far too large for removal as found and it defied picks and stone hammers. Chisels proved all but useless and a hundred wedges were used up in efforts, for the most part vain, to make fragments of the mass. It consisted of an agglomeration of coarse metals, mainly as it seemed, iron and steel, intermingled with lead, solder, and copper, all fused under terrific heat, and forming a vitrified mass, utterly useless, but so tenaciously welded that sledge blows produced no impression upon it and wedges sunk in, under the hammer, only to stick there and accomplish nothing. The force of several men working on it had succeeded up to yesterday only in reducing it a half, and they were still wrestling with a great chunk of it ten feet by four or five, and half as thick as it was A hundred dollars' worth of labor had aiready been expended on it, and while now and then a bit came off, the hammers of the laborers sprung back, most often producing no apparent effect on the mass, and discouraging the men. whose blows might seemingly as well have been delivered upon Gibraltar. Many passers by stopped to watch the exasperating work, and it was not long before the workmen were diverted by stories of the origin of the annoyance, which they were told dated from the great fire of 1835. A hardware store, according to the Itinerant historians, and evidently some sort of ship chandlery or from mongery had occupied the site at the time of the fire, and the contents of the place, falling promiscuously together in the wreck of the building, had been converted by the great heat into a great "run" of metal, partly molten, and had gone to the cellar when the ruins fell in. Nails of all sizes, spikes, and strips of iron were visible in the slag found by the diggers, the smaller pails sticking out from humps on parts of the greater bulk as thick as porcupine quills.

When the rest of the débris was cleared away after the fire the big slag pile was left there. The foundation for the new building-which latterly has been a bonded warehouse—was built around it, and the corner which it encumbered as left as an open cellar.

The fire in which the conglomerate was formed sixty years ago was the most destruc-tive that ever visited New York. It swept over the greater part of the business district, burn-ing down that part of the city lying between Wall and William streets and the East River, and eating up $18,000,000 worth of property. All the insurance companies went down under osses. seculiar incident is noted in the accounts of the losses.

A peculiar incident is noted in the accounts of the fire in connection with the insurance, it is recorded in THE SUN of the day as an illustration of the benefits of being an abolitionist. Tappen & Co., merchants, had been unable to get their stock insured in New York because of the fear that, as the firm were abolitionists, some rabid opponents would fire their store, so they had placed insurance in Boston companies. The Boston companies were able to pay. But that was not the full measure of their good fortune among the lile visited upon their fellow townsmen. Grateful blacks hastened to their store and carried out the stock to places of safety.

The fire, which began about 9 o'clock on the zero night of Wednesday, Dec. 10, reached the Old slip corner after 10, and its progress was so rapid and so rayenous that The Sun, which, like all papers in those days, went to press early in the evening, contained on Thursday this postscript, dated half past 1 o'clock:

A TREMENDOUS CONFLAGRATION is now ragin the lower part of the city. The Merchants' Exchange is in flames. Nearly all the blocks in the riangle bounded by William and Wall streets and the God only knows where the fire will be arrested.

Oil only knows where the fire destroyed seventy-six buildings and thirty-three in Oil slip. Of its ravages The SUN of Friday morning says that it "left nearly 700 of its most lofty and magnificent stores and edifices a widespread waste of smouldering ruins."

The exact number of buildings destroyed was gald to be 603. be 693. Sun of that day says of the fire: "The

THE SUN of that day says of the fire: "The scene was awfully magnilicent and sunlime. It seemed as if a took were moving in his anger and sweeping away with the besom of his wrath the proudest monuments of man." The merchants of the First ward, like Marius on the ruins of Carthage, sit with meiancholy moans gazing at the graves of their fortunes and the mournful mementos of the dreadful devastation that reigns. Our transatiantic world has never suffered so terrible a calamity, and has never witnessed such humiliating evidence of the utter impotence of the puny efforts of man."

In consequence of the calamity the law courts on Thursday adjourned as soon as they had convened. The police courts, however, had plenty to do. The Sux of Saturday says:

"Yesterday, as the day before, the Police Department was wholly and exclusively devoted to the recovery, assortment, and delivery to their owners of goods plundered from the scene of to the recovery, assortment, and delivery to their owners of goods plundered from the scene of cevastation. * * * Cart loads of valuable goods were recovered from undernoath the floors of low cellars, the rafters of garrets, and from under piles of wood and rubbish, where they had been secreted in almost every where they had been secreted in almost every part of the city.

"The scene at the office since the first breaking out of the devastating element which wrought all this ruin, manic, and distress has been indeed heartrending. The squalid misery of the greater part of those taken with the poods in their possession, the lies and prevaritations to which they resorted to induce the magistrates not to commit them to prison, their screenings and waitings when they jound they must relinquish the splendid prizes they had made during the raging of the fire, and the numbers in which they were brought up by the police and the military, exceeded say scene of a similar kind on record. For the inst three days and nights every place capable of detention has been crammed with these miserable objects."

of detention has been crammed with these mis-erable objects."

The fire lasted three days, and the burned area measured thirteen acres.

Besides the relies of the fire which have been turned up and have attracted attention at Old silp, the workmen have also come upon an old dock, which they are tearing up there. The buildings thereabouts, as in many other in-riances around the lower part of the city, have heap put up over the old dock crib work that lined the water front which, before so much land was teclained from the East River, was along where Water street now runs. The dock the men are tearing up, however, was probably a dock for the silp.

CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACT.

Black Says the Carpenters' Union Preated His Geiting Work.

The police are trying to find five officers of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. against whom a charge of conspiracy has been lodged by James Black, a carpenter, of 269 Fifty-third street, Brooklyn. Black, in an affidavit, says that Timothy E. Deegan, who holds the office of business agent, and lives at 1,260 Lexington avenue, acting in concert with five other officers of the brotherhood, conspired to prevent him from procuring employment be-cause he declined to pay a fee of $10 and $1 cause he declined to pay a fee of $10 and $1 quarierly dues.

The other officers are William F. Plumb, President; Thomas E. Dovie, Secretary, and three others who are maned as John Doe, Richard Roe, and Thomas Poe, their real names not being known to the complainant.
Black says that without the payment of the moneys specified he could not get a working card that would enable him to get employment in the city and county of New York.
The defence before Magistrate Mott in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday was that the complainant was a member of the union, and, consequently, was amenable to all of its rules and regulations.

And regulations.

Black said that he made ne objection to the enforcement of the union by-laws, but that he based his complaint on the action of Deegan in depriving him of a job that he had obtained outside of the union, working as an independent ouiside of the union, working as an independent mechanic.

The Magistrate paroled Beegan, the only one yet under arrest, hending the arraignment of the other alleged conspirators.

Subsequently Lawyer E. A. Summer of 90 Nassau street, who has the case of the defendant, Deegan, arranged with the Court that the warrants for the men not yet arrested should be held in abeyance until the case of the defendant now under arrest was decided.

Magistrate Mott concluded to take Deegan's case under advisement on Monday.

Bemented Woman Found Drowned.

The body of a woman found in the East River at Ninety-fifth street, yesterday morning, was identified last night by Sigmund Lederer, a pro-fessional nurse, of 428 East Seventy-seventh street, as that of his wife Selma. He said that she had become demented from illners, and had twice tried to kill herself recently—once by in-haling gas and another time by cutting one of her wrists. Sie disappeared from her home early on Monday, when the rest of the house-hold was asleep. ARRESTED FOR WELCHING.

Bookmaker Charged with Not Paying His Bets on the Aquednet Track A man who said he was Dr. Dudley N. Dickeron of 224 West Twentieth street was charged with weiching before Magistrate Mott in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday. He was held without ball for further examination this morning. Shortly after 2 o'clock Policeman Patrick of the West Forty-seventh street station saw Dickerson running down Broadway as fast as his legs could carry him. A hundred feet in his rear followed a gang of fifty men and boys. Two of the men, who were in advance of the other runners, shouted to the policeman to hold the fugicive. Patrick didn't wait to learn the reason, but, suspecting that some one had been robbed, caught Dickerson's coat tails just as be robbed, caught Dickerson's coat tails just as he was turning into Fifty-first street. The men who had shouted to have the fugitive stopped grabbed him at the same time. A doren other men in the crowd gathered around, demanding that the prisoner be locked up.

When the policeman wanted to know what all the trouble was about two of the men started to explain. They said they were l'atrick McClusky, a plano mover, of 12 Gregory street, Jersey City, and John Lawrence, a clerk, of 258 West Thirty-fifth street. According to their story Dickerson had robbed them of 38. They said that on Wednesday they had gone to Aqueduct race track, near Long Island city, where they were approached by the prisoner, who said he was a bookmaker. McClusky rut up 35 to $4 on Druid, one of the racers, while Lawrence bet $1 to $1 on $1r Francis. Both the horses woon. When they demanded their money from the bookmaker be handed them each a card engraved "Dudley & Wilson, room 9, 1,227 Broadway."

When McClusky and Lawrence went to 1,227
Broadway yesterday they found a dozen or fifteen men waiting to see the bookmaker. They also learned that they probably wouldn't get their money. While they were debating as to what to do next Dickerson appeared. The fifteen or more men who had bet on the race started for him at once. Without waiting to explain matters he started on a run down Broadway.

When arraigned before Magistrate Mott the prisoner begged to be let go, saying that he didn't intend to swindle any one. He said that he had leat $1.800 on the races and hadn't the money to pay up. When McClusky and Lawrence said they would press the charge of cheating them against him, he weepingly offered to go out and borrow the money he owel them. The Magistrate finally decided to hold him without bail pending the receipt of information from Long Island. The bookmaker is 44 years old, with a peaked face, gray hair, and closely cropped gray beard and moustache.

JAPANESE MEN OF FINANCE.

A Party on Their Way to London to Take Care of the Chinese Indemnity.

CHICAGO, July 17 .- A party of five Japanese eached Chicago yesterday on their way from Yokohama to London, where they are to effect the transfer of the war indemnity which China owes to their country. At the head of the party Sonoda Kokichi, President of the Specie Bank at Yokohama the financial agent of the Bank of Japan, a Government institution. With him are S. Hawakawa, private secretary of the Minister of Finance; T. Yamamoto,

With him are S. Hawakawa, private secretary of the Minister of Finance; T. Yamamoto, cashier of the Bank of Japan; U. Yanagiya and K. Imanishi, secretaries to Mr. Kokichi.

By the treaty made at the close of the war with China that country engaged to pay the victorious Japanese an indemnity of 200,000,000,000. Half of this has already been turned over in London by the Chinese Embassy to the Japanese Embassy. The Specie Bank, as the agent of the Bank of Japan, which has no London correspondent, will receive the money from the embassy of the Japanese Government and attend to its transfer to Japan or other disposition of it. Of this Mr. Kokichi said:

"Just what we are to do with the indemnity I am not at liberty to say. It may be expended in part. The indemnity was to be paid in silver, but it will likely be converted into gold.

"Yours is a wonderful city and a wonderful country. I have always thought well of the United States. It is likely that our relations will become closer. Japan is now at work on a steamship line to the United States. We are to repair our broken navy, and I should like to see the men-of-war built in American shipyans, as we have no means at home to do the work.

"I am a bimetallist. Japan is practically a sliver country. After your Congress repealed the Sherman law and the price of sliver fell, our tovernment appointed a Commission to make a study of the money question. I was a member of it. The Commission thought it best to adopt a gold standard, although it did not believe that Japan was quite ready for it then. It favored gold as a means of keeping financial company with other nations. But we should prefer the double standard if the world would only have it."

MRS. CORA CHAPMAN ARRESTED.

Many Cocktalls at Coney Island. Cora Chapman, the wife of Hawley Chapman, the actor, who is in the incurable ward in the Bioomingdate Asylum, was arrested at 3 o'clock yesterday morning for being drunk and creating disturbance in Surf avenue, Coney Island. Mrs. Chapman was shot five years ago by Herbert Searvant, a trained nurse, who had charge of her husband. Searvant was sent to Sing Sing for eight years. After her husband was declared insane Mrs. Chapman started in to have a good time on the income of his estate. A month ago she went down to Coney Island and hired a cottage for the season. #### A Jealous Woman Throws Vitriol.

BUTTE, Mon., July 17.-Because she thought her husband had been too attentive to another woman, Mrs. Edward Heinebach, wife of the manager of the Boston and Montana Mining Company, threw a pint of vitriol in the face of Mrs. Thomas Snelling last night. The fluid burned almost every shred of clothing off the woman's body; her lace and body were burned in a most frightful manner, and the sight of both eyes probably destroyed. Mrs. Heinebach and her sister, who accompanied her, are in jail. The condition of the victim is serious, and it is said there is no foundation for Mrs. Heinebach's jealousy.

PARTING CALLS TO GET A CHECK

Petty Clerk in Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co,'s Office Travelling West-Left Some Athletic and Other Creditors Here and Stuck an Albany Bank in Passing Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., several mem-bers of the late New Manhattan Athletic Club, and other confiding persons are anxious to look once more upon the countenance of "Baron" Ludwig Gruenig. Gruenig, called "the Baron" in sport, came to this country three years ago. He had been employed by one of the most important banks of Darmstadt, of which city his father is a wealthy citizen. Ludwig lived in a wild, extravagant set in Darmstadt, and he was sent off to America to break off all these daugerous acquaintances. He presented excellent letters of introduction to Oscar Bamberger, credit cierk with Bloomingdale Brothers, and Mr. Bamberger secured a place for him in the store as a clerk at a small salary. After a year and a half a place with Laden-burg, Thalmann & Co. was secured for him. His salary was $10 a week. He lived in a boarding house on Fifty-seventh street between Second and Third avenues. He worked accurately and steadily, and after a year or two his salary was raised to $15.

Joining the athletic club seems to have brought him again into expensive ways. He hypothe-cated his salary with the concerns which make a business of advancing money on salaries, taking in return notes for half as much again as they advance. He borrowed small change from fellow employees. He borrowed larger amounts, ratiging from $5 to $50, from fellow members in the athletic club. Everybody liked to lend to him.

amounts, ranging from $5 to $50, from fellow members in the athletic club. Everybody liked to lend to him.

A month ago the note sharks began pressing him hard. He wrote to a brother, George, a mining engineer in Clifton, Arisona, saying that he needled money. George Gruenis wrote to Mr. Bamberger, asking him to look after Ludwig and giving authority to expend, if necessary, $200 in settling matters. Some of the more pressing debts were paid.

On July 3 Gruenig went to E. E. Warner, clerk in a Columbus arenue drug store, and got Warner to cash a check for $10. He told of a draft for 1,000 marks sent by his father to Ladenburg. Thalmann & Co., and there placed to his credit. Gruenig said that he was going to Rockiawny Beach with some friends. He also in duced Brokaw Hetchers to give him a $10 suit of clothes in exchange for another cleek on Ladenburg. Thalmann & Co. Julius Jungmann, druggist of 1,600 Third avenue, also contributed to the Fourth of July outing at Bockaway Beach. On Monday, July 6, Gruenig was not at his deak. At 2 o'clock in the morning of Tuesday he persuaded Warner's fellow clerk to get out of bed and cash a check for $15. Warner has gone on a vacation. Since then "the Baron" has not been seen here. But a week ago the First National Bank of Abhany gave him $400 on the sirength of a letter purporting to be from Ladenburg. Thalmann & Co., authorizing correspondents of the firm to honor Gruenig's checks to the extent of $2,500. Ladenburg. He is said to have written to a friend, saying that he was goine out West and that if he was pursued he would shoot himself; "and." he concluded, "kindly go around and make everything all right with Mr. Thaimain."

Friend and benefactor Bamberger admitted yesterday that he knew Gruenig, and that Gruenig had signed his name to a telegram to George Gruenig, requesting George to send $200 at once. ### OFFICER HOLDS FAST TO A CRANK

It Was in a Fire-niarm Box and Then Me Wondered the Engine Didn't Come. A complaint was received by the Fire Commissioners yesterday that the fire-alarm box at the corner of Thirty-eighth street and First avenue did not respond when an alarm was sent in all boxes.

As no engine responded to the alarm, the P-sitee Department was notified by telephone and the operator at Fire Headquarters was informed of the fire. A special call was sent by the operator to Engine Company 21, the company nearest the fire.

When the engine on its way to the fire, passed the call box at Thirty-eighth street, the policeman was found still holding on to the crank so preventing the slarm from being sounded. Commissioner Sheffleld said he supposed that if Engine 21 had not passed the box the policeman would still be nolding on to the crank.

While playing near her uncle's house with other children she started to cross the with other children she started to cross the trolley tracks of the Greenpoint line of cars. She was struck by car 4.407, in charge of Motorinao Frank Bryan.

The fender scooped her in, but she bounced out and the fender passed over her. The car was stopied, however, before the wheels touched her. She received several bruises, but was able to walk to her uncle's house, where an ambulance surgeon attended her.

Williamsburgh Firemen Injured. The Amberine Varnish Works, in North Eleventh street, Williamsburgh, were destroyed by fire yesterday. There were several explosions, and, in a twinkling, the building was ablaze. Fire man Carrol, who was directing a stream on the fire from the roof of a cooperage opposite, was badly burned. A shifting wind drovette flames in his face. He was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital. Firemen Madigan. Chattaway, and Rellenberg of Engine 38 were overcome by the heat. Fireman Adams of Engine 21 fell from a roof and was slightly cut and brulsed.

Lunch Room Lavery Temporarily Short of Rendy Cash.

Mortimer Stiefel has been appointed receiver in supplementary proceedings for John Lavery, proprietor of a lunch room at 163 Broadway, on the application of H. Koehler & Co. Mr. Lavery has kept the place for the past twenty-four years. He has plenty of assets, but has not the ready cash to meet some pressing claims. John S. McNulty, his attorney, said yesterday that arrangements were being made to pay off the claims out of the receipts of the business and from rents. The entire debts do not amount to $1,000, and already the claim of H. Koehler & Co. has been reduced from $177 to $30, and the receivership is only temporary.

The Sheriff has received an attachment for $4,750 against Joseph K. Anders, manufacturer of kindling wood at 174 to 182 Bank street, in favor of J. A. #### WEAKFISH AT A CENT A POUND. Sharp Competition Between Bival Dealers in Elizabethport.

In almost every city in northern New Jersey there is strong opposition to the Atlantic Fish Association, a combination of pound net fishermen on the coast which has antagonized the wholesale dealers in this city and the retail dealers of New Jersey by peddling fish from freight cars. The Asbury Park pound fishermen started the business a year ago under the management of John A. Githens, and they quickly estranged themselves from the fishnongers' association of this city. The retail dealers in Newark, Trenton, and other cities dealers in Newark, Trenton, and other cities met the prices as well as they could and established temporary stands near the freight yards, but this has not discouraged the pound men.

Yesterday Elizabethport was the scene of a sharp competition. The shore men had just arrived with a car of fish when the independent dealers of Elizabethport received a car load in the same yard. The Atlantic men began selling weakfish at 4 cents a pound, when the Elizabethport dealers dropped to 3 cents a pound. As soon as this cut was met they dropped to 2 cents a pound, and finally fish were sold from each car at 1 cent a pound, and people were struggling to buy out the stock.

They were fine big weakfish, weighing from five to eight pounds each.

To-day's stock market reflected a calmer feeling and the entertainment of more sensible views than have prevailed during the last few days. The Street is apparently beginning to realize that it has allowed its fears to supersede its judgment and that by doing so it has played into the hands of a bold and powerful combination formed to Chicago early in the month. Operators for a decline made a sharp drive at prices at the opening, but it immediately became apparent that they were the principal sellers and that the liquidation which they have helped to bring about had run its course. The larger Board room traders and promptly ranged themselves upon the long side of the market. These circumstances, to-
